MANHOOD
How Lost, How Restored!
Just published, a new edition of Dr.
Culverwell's celebrated Essay on the radical cure of spermatorrhea, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to marriage, etc., also Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, etc.
The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual; by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

IOLA REGISTER-Supplement

FRIDAY, AUGUST 4, 1882.

FINDING FAULT.
In speaking of a person's faults, Pray don't forget your own; Remember those with whom of glass Should seldom throw a stone.
If we had nothing else to do Than talk of those who sin, 'Tis better we commence at home,
And from that point begin.
We have no right to judge a man Until he's fairly tried, Should we not like his company,
We know the world is wide;
Some may have faults, and who has not?
The old as well as young, Perhaps we may, for all we know,
Have fifty to their one.
I'll tell you of a better plan,
And find it works full well,
To find your own defects to cure, Ere other's faults you tell.
And though I sometime hope to be No worse than some I know, My own short comings bid me let The faults of others go.
Now let us all, when we begin To slander friend or foe, Think of the harm one word may do To those we little know.
Remember, curses, chicken-like Sometimes to roost come home; Don't speak of others faults until You have none of your own.

GOING TO PRESS.
[Wm. A. Jones, foreman of the composing room of the New Orleans "Times," became conscious for a moment, and in that gleam, dwelling upon the habit of his life, he suddenly exclaimed, "The ads are all right, Sherman; lock up the forms and let's go to press."] Fellow-man, a moment linger, On the dying printer's speech;
For it bears a weighty lesson, Our unheeding hearts to teach.
Day by day thou art composing What a universe shall read; Type to type are ceaseless setting.
As thou addest deed to deed.
Ah, how surely life's full columns, When the hand that set them lies Fixed in an unbroken stillness, Their composer advertise.
Soon the forms are locked forever, Changeless shall thy impression be;
Scan thy proofs in time, O printer; Thou art near eternity.
Are the "ads" all right, composer?
Art thou standing justified?
Ready now for death and judgment, Their unfoldings to abide.
So shalt thou, as night advances, Greet th' unsteady Pressman's call; Then await the morn eternal, Publishing thy life to all.

GETTING CRABBED.
A YOUNG LADY GETTING EVEN WITH A PRACTICAL JOKER.
They tell a story of a would-be funny broker, who last season adopted a most fiendish method of getting even with one of the chronic flirts who are said to make the piazzas here lively later in the season.
He obtained half a dozen energetic crabs from the fishing beach, and, watching for an opportunity when no one was in a particular tank, except the inconsistent fair object of his vengeance, he dropped in the crustaceans (way up term for crabs). The young lady continued her anatomical exercises (jam up for paddling) a few minutes longer, when she suddenly uttered a blood-curdling shriek, and was helped up the ladder with a crab hanging to her little pink toe. She had several consecutive epileptic fits while the marine corn doctor was being removed. The mephistophelean glee of the broker, however, gave him away, and for fear of some counter trick he decided to bathe early in the morning thereafter.
A few days after that the bath house keeper was startled by some terrific yells, and, hastily entering the tank-house, he beheld the broker floundering out with a big, jagged toothed spring rat trap clenched on his heel. "Who the devil put this horrible thing in the water?" roared the broker.
"I did sir," sweetly replied the crabbed young lady aforementioned, stepping out of a bath room. "I put it there to catch those horrid crabs, you know." The broker went home on a crutch.

Such advertising as the following from the Chicago Journal will do the State more good than a half dozen immigration bureaus; "A few years ago the young State of Kansas astonished all its older sisters by raising a bigger crop than any of them. Since then the grasshoppers and other enemies have interfered with the growth of that cereal, and Kansas has had to take a back seat in the agricultural tables. But now the cheering news comes that her present wheat crop will be the greatest ever known, which will again place her at the head of the heap."

SENSE AND SAND.

The facts seem to show that the educated men of the Jeannette expedition endured the awful sufferings and privations of the march better than the more ignorant, even though the latter were apparently the strongest physically.
Much observation in other cases seem to bear out this doctrine that it is mind rather than muscle that makes the man, and that with intellectual development comes that quality of courage which is typified by the excellent slang word "sand," the equivalent and something more of "grit."
In cases of shipwreck it has been noted that officers, presumably more intelligent than common sailors, live the longest; and it has been also noticed that women, seemingly delicate bear exposure, hunger and the other perils of the time, better than men. This is like the case of the officers, by reason of intelligence, for among the common run of civilized people, it is the woman who, up to a certain point, has the most intelligence, who has the best education. Girls at schools are more studious than boys; and where one of a married pair cannot read or write, it is usually the husband.

The man of reading is of kin to all the men of intelligence who have ever lived.
Through books he has lived with all the brave men who have gone before. He knows what they have done in circumstances of trial, and he is encouraged by and imitates their example. "What man has done, man may do," and as he knows what man has done, he knows what he may do. The ignorant man knows nothing but to-day and himself. The intelligent man knows all about yesterday and so hopes for to-morrow.
It is a good thing to have big bones and stout sinews, but it is better to have brains. If a man has both he is most fortunate. Still the world has been turned upside down by dyspeptics, invalids cripples and hunchbacks. They had in an unhappy receptacle the gift of "sand." People should remember these things.
If you would fight the world, the flesh, the devil, pain, poverty, and all things else, you must know; you must have knowledge. The soldier who reads a newspaper at a halt, can march a doublefisted ignoramus, who knows nothing but his canteen and haversack, to death.
There is many a scholar, who, with half the training, could go into the ring and whip Sullivan out of his shoes.
Over-training one's mind as one's muscle is bad, and produces a reaction, but that amount of knowledge which keeps a man's eye open and makes a gentleman, is worth more than all the sand bags and Indian clubs in existence.
Knowledge is power; not only in the head but in the small of the back and the calves of the legs.

In the Senate the other day Mr.
Plumb made an earnest and pointed protest against the proposed increase of the salaries of subordinate officers in the various departments in Washington.
He called attention to the reduction of wages throughout the country and the discontent of the laboring community from this cause. He urged it was inconsistent and injudicious to increase official salaries at this time and in so doing the Government was creating an office holding aristocracy. He said the increased cost of living in Washington which had been urged as a reason for the increase, was due to the fact that higher salaries were paid there than elsewhere.
The proposed increase was thereupon voted down.—[Capital.

In 1860 there were produced in this country about 60,000,000 pounds of wool.
We now produce 240,000,000 pounds and import 30,000,000 to 60,000,000 pounds, nearly as much as we imported twenty years ago, the largest increase in production having been absorbed by an increase in consumption, and although there is such a large increase in the production of woolens yet on account of the increase of population, we import nearly as many goods as in 1860.

An eastern correspondent revives the old, old theory that rain can be produced by explosions, which breaks up the equilibrium and changes the electric condition of the atmosphere. He suggests experiments with gunpowder and pure nitro glycerine.

According to Comptroller Campbell, the funded debt of the city of New York on the last day of June, was $136,041, 807.59. The tax rate for New York city for 1882 is about $2.20, which is lower than it has been at any time since the war began. Last year it was $2.62.
